

“Every bank has a unique personality. Ours puts hometown people first.”

“I’VE BEEN ON BOTH SIDES OF A BANKER’S DESK AND KNOW HOW TO SATISFY CLIENTS. FCB BANKERS DO TOO.”

Rex Easton knows a bit about banking. At age 16, he started as a teller at National Bank of Joliet, graduating to auditor, loan officer and eventually a director at a local bank. While serving as President of United Way, Easton continued to refine a ‘feel’ for the various banks’ personalities.

Today, he and wife Melodee are investors as well as personal and business clients at First Community Bank because, “the hometown personality is there—local ownership, local management and a genuine commitment to community.”

If you’re ready to do business where the staff is exceptionally friendly, where bankers expertly meet your financial needs and where you’ll feel right at home, get acquainted with First Community Bank where people come first.
