The most successful college baseball coach in the country understands the value of teamwork. So, when Gordie Gillespie and his wife Joan moved back to their hometown, it seemed natural to sign on with the team of banking professionals at First Community Bank.

The Gillespies appreciate the secure feeling that comes from doing business with a locally owned, locally managed bank—part of their trusted hometown network.

If you're ready for that rare combination of personal, knowledgeable one-on-one service and the resources of an on-site, multi-talented financial team, come to First Community Bank, where people come first.
